American Stories (A New Volume of).

"The Miser Grandfather," by Squid Scotch: and a variety of other choice Stories by the most eminent American Writers, some Original and some culled from the best sources. In the Press.

Battle (The) about the Book.

A Battle about the Book (May 7th, 1872). By one who saw the Fight. 12mo. Second Ed.

"A cleverly written little how-to has appeared with the above title. The writer is a real student. He not only narrates in flowing prose the incidents of the debate on the Education Act by the Congregational Union, assembled at Weymouth Chapel (Rev. T. HENRY), London, on 7th May last, but also criticises the programme and arguments of the Education League. The little defence of Bible teaching in schools is as well worth reading as anything that has yet appeared in the Education controversy."—The Standard, 1872.

Beecher's Sermons.

Forty Eight Sermons preached previously to 1867. By Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER, Pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, New York. 2 Vols, cr. 8vo, 7/- (or, separately, each 3/6).

1/- Formerly published by Messrs. Hutton & Son.

"The Plymouth Pulpit": One hundred and one Sermons. By Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER. 4 Vols, cr. 8vo, 16/- (or, separately, each 4/-).

(Originally also published in monthly parts, which can still be supplied to perfect sets.)

"I have often taken occasion to say that BEECHER is the greatest preacher that ever appeared in the world; this judgment is most soberly considered and most deliberately pronounced; his brilliant fancy, his deep knowledge of human nature, his affable language, and the many-sidedness of his noble mind, conspire to place him at the head of all Christian speakers. You may think me unduly eulogistic until you have read these illuminating and thrilling discourses."—Rev. Dr. PARKER, in The Pulpit Analyst (June, 1872). "AD CLERUM."

"Greater service to preachers can hardly be rendered than to put into their hands such models of vigorous, earnest, unconventional preaching as Mr. BEECHER'S sermons supply . . . His greatly gifted nature furnishes not only models of preaching, but suggestions of meaning that are very precious. Mr. DICKINSON is doing great service by his re-publication of these sermons."—The British Quarterly Review.

Beecher on Preaching.

Lectures on Preaching, delivered in Yale College, New Haven, Connecticut, U.S.A. By Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Reprinted from "The Christian Union," New York. Third Thousand, post 8vo, 1/6

* "In this book the omissions in Lecture IX. (caused by the loss of a portion of the photographic reporter's notes) which occur in "The Christian Union" and also in another edition published in this country have been supplied by Mr. Beecher. This is therefore THE COMPLETE EDITION.

"Delivered before the students of Yale College, they are bristful of practical suggestions, untended, of course, primarily for those who listened to them, but equally valuable to all engaged in proclaiming the truth; and we could wish a copy of this work placed in the hands of every clergyman in the kingdom. Great earnestness and an unusually large infusion of sound common sense, are the distinguishing features of these lectures, and the good advice so clearly given is abundantly illustrated and enforced by numerous incidents drawn by the lecturer from his own experience. Additional value is given to the work by the questions asked by the students after each lecture being duly noted in their proper places, with the answers given by Mr. Beecher. — The Rect.

Burns' Sketches of Sermons.

One Hundred and Fifty Original Sketches and Plans of Sermons, comprising various series on special and peculiar subjects, adapted for week-evening services. By JAMES BURNS, D.D., Author of "Sketches and Skeletons of Sermons," &c., &c. Post 8vo, 4/-

"The present volume well supports the reputation of the author, and presents momentous truths under novel aspects, so as at once to secure the attention and interest of his audience." — The Morning Star.

"Mr. Burns is a veteran in this kind of work, and this is one of the very best we know of. The outlines are very full, and usually the subjects are skilfully treated in a simple, suggestive manner. We cordially commend this volume." — The Ecclesiastical Review.

Children's Pulpit (Our).

Our Children's Pulpit : and Talk with the little ones, edited by Rev. JOHN EDMOND, D.D., Park Church, Highbury, and containing Twenty-five Sermons to Children by him, each preceded by the materials for a short service; together with ninety short and appropriate Articles and Anecdotes. 8vo cloth extra, suitable for presentation, 3/-

Cuyler's The Empty Crib.

The Empty Crib: a Memorial of Little Georgie; and Words of Consolation for Bereaved Parents. By Rev. THEO. L. CUYLER, D.D., Brooklyn, U.S.A. With Introductory Letter, by Rev. NEWMAN HALL, J.L.B. Square 12mo. Best Edition, on thick paper, cloth, hoveled boards, gilt edges, with two portraits, 2/6. Cheap Edition, cloth limp, 1/6.

"The CUYLER in this work addresses more especially bereaved parents, to whom he speaks as a fellow-sufferer. The memorial of 'Little Georgie,' which forms the first portion of the volume, is beautifully written, and will touch the heart of many a reader—not excepting those who are happily spared the pain of reflecting upon an empty crib in their own homes. When the little one was taken, and Dr. CUYLER'S love, become known, letters poured in on all hands from sympathizing friends; and thinking that much of the comfort thus offered was equally applicable to others, he has selected from these letters the portions not of a strictly personal character, and given them as a kind of appendix. The Rev. NEWMAN HALL, furnishes an introductory letter, kindly appropriate in tone, and one or two short poems bearing upon the subject are also inserted. A short paper by Dr. CUYLER on 'The Consolation of Children,' which follows, should be read by all Christian parents."—The Rev.

Dictionary (The) of Illustrations.

The Dictionary of 6,744 Illustrations adapted to Christian Teaching; embracing Mythology, Analogies, Legends, Parables, Emblems, Metaphors, Similes, Allegories, Proverbs; Classic, Historic, and Religious Anecdotes, &c. Second Edition. Handsome Royal 8vo volume, cloth 12/6 Half French Morocco, Roxburgh Style, 14/-

CONTENTS.—Title, Introduction, &c., 8 pages; Illustrations selected from above eight hundred of the most celebrated Authors, ancient and modern, 799 pages; Index of Texts Illustrated, 36 pages; Index of Subjects, 14 pages—Total, 848 pages.

"We are disposed to regard this as the fullest, most varied, and most useful Cyclopædia of Illustrations ever published in this country. Mr. DICKINSON has produced a work far surpassing others of a similar kind. Ministers, lay preachers, and Sunday school teachers will find it invaluable. The range of authors quoted is very wide. Of the 6,744 quotations there are a large number of anecdotes which may enliven many a public speech or Sabbath school address, while the still larger number of similes from the works of our best poets and preachers will be found not only useful to ministers and public speakers, but very acceptable and profitable reading to those who love digging manna."—The Free Press.

Dictionary (The) of Poetical Illustrations.

The Dictionary of Poetical Illustrations adapted to Christian Teaching; embracing Poems, Odes, Legends, Lyrics, Hymns, Sonnets, Extracts, &c. By Rev. ELON FOSTER, New York. Handsome Royal 8vo volume. Half French Morocco, Roxburgh Style, 12/6

CONTENTS.—Title and Preface, 7 pages; List of 600 Authors quoted, 5 pages; 3,071 Illustrations, 654 pages; Topical Index, 6 pages; Index of First Lines and Authors, 22 pages; Partial List of Works quoted, 2 pages—Total 696 pages.

"Mr. FOSTER has compiled a large volume of nearly seven hundred pages, containing extracts from 600 authors, and classified under about eight hundred topics, and we have only to turn to the topical index to be sure of finding lines that will light up a grey passage in a speech or a sermon, or work into a poem."—The Editor's taste is very exquisite, ranging from SHAKESPEARE to MARTIN F. TOWERS, but it is only fair to say that he gives F. TOWERS, but it is only fair to say that he gives really a wonderful run in its way, and, apart from its direct purpose, is very pleasant to read."—The Congregationalist.

"The above two works are uniform in the Roxburgh Style, and form thus a very handsome and useful present for a Sunday School Superintendent or Teacher. They can also be had, together or separate, in more expensive binding, by direct application to the Publishers, and are obtainable in sheets.

"In addition to the intrinsic excellence of the sermons they have the exciting freshness of modern religious thought and presentation which are different from our own; they seem to be well translated; their flavour is carefully retained. We cordially commend them to both serious-preachers and serious-readers."—The British Quarterly Review.

Griffin's Sermons.

Fifty-four Plain Practical Sermons. By the late EDWARD DORR GRIFFIN, D.D., Minister of the Second Presbyterian Congregation at Albany, U.S. Second Series. Crown 8vo, 5/-.

The FIRST SERIES ("Fifty-nine Plain Practical Sermons") is out of print and scarce.

"Dr GRIFFIN was one of the greatest of American preachers, and his greatness consisted precisely in those qualities which make preaching effective for its highest purpose. His sermons are the kind of sermons that were preached in this country both in the Church of England and among Evangelical Nonconformists during the first thirty years of the present century—sermons which, under God, did a kind of work which will never be done again until the same merciful returns."—The Congregationalist.

Greenwood on the Great Latin Patriarchate.

Cathedra Petri: a Political History of the Great Latin Patriarchate from the First to the Sixteenth Century. By the late THOMAS GREENWOOD, M.A., Barrister-at-Law. Vol. VI. comprising the History of the Papacy from the Thirteenth to the Sixteenth Century: and thus forming a distinct work (see page 1) 8vo, 9/-.

The former volumes of this valuable but little known work were published as follows. Vols. I. and II., in 1856-58, by Mr. C. J. Stewart. Vols. III. and IV., in 1859-61, by Messrs. Thickbroom Brothers. Vol. V., in 1865, by Mr. W. Macintosh. Dr. & H. have the whole remaining stock, and can sell any volume (except Vol. I., which they wish to purchase) at 3/6 each, nett. They can also report the price of Sets in various styles of binding.

"Several years have passed since we were called upon to pronounce a critical opinion upon the five large volumes composing this work, previous to the present one, which brings it down to the time of the Reformation. That opinion was in every way favourable to the learning and patient research of the author, but especially so to his deep dislike and unsparring censure of the Pœl system, both in its principles and its overt acts. The development of the Roman system within the last few years, and its growing influence in our own country, give a new importance to Mr. GREENWOOD's labours, and we hope that the short notice which we are compelled to give to this, the sixth volume, may bring the whole under the favourable regard of many of our readers. But if they should not be able to take the whole six volumes in hand, they may be glad to know that this one—the sixth—is published apart, and with a distinct title, and contains a separate history of the Mendicant Orders. Their rise and progress is well sketched out and the causes of their rise, success, and decline are narrated with a simple eloquence. The crowded state of our pages forbids us to give more than a short extract relating to the corruption of those powerful helpers of the Church of Rome."—The Rev.

Haven (Rev. G.) and Hon. T. Russell : see under "Taylor (Father)."

Hawes' Sermons.

Thirty-six Sermons, experimental and practical, an offering to Home Missionaries. By JOEL HAWES, D.D., Hartford, U.S. 12mo, 3/6

"Dr. HAWES, of the United States, has long occupied a prominent place as a sound evangelical divine, and effective preacher of the Gospel. These thirty-six sermons will confirm and extend the reputation so justly deserved. The topics are singularly striking, and there is a thorough freshness and vigour about them that must command the attention of the reader, and their rich literary and evangelical fervour will make them alike edifying both to the head and the heart. All our local preachers and speakers, as well as young men studying for the ministry, will do well to possess this excellent volume."—The Morning Star.

Hexaglot Bible (The).

The Hexaglot Bible, comprising the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments in the Original Tongues : together with the Septuagint, the Syriac (of the New Testament) the Vulgate, the authorized English, and German, and the most approved French, versions, in parallel columns. The Masoretic Notes are appended to each volume of the Old Testament 6 vols, royal 4to. Half morocco, Roxburgh Style, £6 : 6s. net.

- Vol. I. The Pentateuch.
- Vol. II. Joshua—2 Kings.
- Vol. III. 1 Chronicles—Solomon's Song.
- Vol. IV. Isaiah—Malachi.
- Vol. V. The Four Gospels.
- Vol. VI. Acts—Revelation.

The Texts are in the following order :—

In the Old Test : Hebrew, Greek, Latin, English, German, French.
In the New Test : Greek, Syriac, Latin, English, German, French.

This magnificent work was commenced by Mr. Henry Cole, and four parts issued as "Cole's Hexaglot Bible." These parts will be taken in exchange against an equal favourable term. Copies of the first two volumes have also been circulated, lettered "Cole's," and the remaining volumes similarly lettered can be obtained by special order. B. & H. likewise published Vols. I. and II. only, in 10 parts at 5s. each, which can still be had for completing vols.

"This work will be a most valuable addition to the library of the Biblical student. Great pains have been taken to secure the best type for the different texts, and, by a judicious arrangement of them in parallel columns, to make the work of the student. The reader, on referring to any passage, may perceive its equivalent in the Hebrew text, the Septuagint, the Vulgate, the German translation of MARTIN LUTHER, the more modern French interpretation, or the English Authorized Version. The type is large, very clear, and the text accurate; and it offers the great advantage of the various versions being so arranged that the termination of each sentence in one version accords with the corresponding passage in the others."—The Revue.

"I have examined carefully several portions of 'The Hexaglot Bible,' and it seems to me to be a very valuable work, and is edited competently and correctly. The arrangement of the New Testament is excellent, and gives us every element of primary importance as well as the original Greek."—B. PATRICK SMITH, D.D., Dean of Canterbury.

"A full Prospectus, with Specimen Pages both of the Old and New Testament Portions, List of Subscribers, and Critical Notices, printed upon paper of the same size and quality as that used for the work, may be obtained by application to the publishers.

Booksellers and others having special facilities for introducing first rate Books to the Clergy, Nobility, and Gentry, are invited to correspond with the publishers as to terms for such services in relation to this magnificent work.

Homilist (The).

The Homilist: Edited by DAVID THOMAS, D.D. Fourth Series, enlarged (1868—1869), 4 vols. (Vols. XXII—XXV. from the commencement). Post 8vo, 26/-, originally 22/- (or, separately, Vols. III. and IV. only, each 6/6, originally, 5/6).

"The Editor (who is also the chief contributor) is one of the most original, suggestive, eloquent preachers of the age; and this work bears on every page the impress of his great mind."—The Halifax Courier.

We have no hesitation in expressing the opinion that "The Homilist" is a most able production, well worthy of the personal of ministers, students, and the more thoughtful members of all sections of the Christian Church; and our readers will be glad to see, in the following extract, the opinion formed by a learned Cambridge man of the writings of Mr. THOMAS:—"I cannot better express my own opinion of the work than by adopting the language in which Archbishop HARE has described the expositions of LUTHER: 'His strong good sense, and his familiarity with the Bible, often enabled him to discern the truth by a kind of divination even in difficult questions.'"—The Christian World.

Complete sets of the three former and our subsequent series of "The Homilist" are out of print and scarce. D. & H. are, however, generally able to report such sets, and also those volumes of them which can be sold separately.

Jackson's (G. Hunt) Sermons.

Chimes from Heaven's Belfry. Thirty-six Sermons by Rev. G. HUNT JACKSON, author of "The World-Wide Want," "Ritualism Exposed," &c., crown 8vo, cloth extra 3/6

"A book of sermons—short, pointed, earnest, whose doctrine is healthy, and whose style is lucidly clear and musical, notwithstanding the fact that the author has condensed his thoughts into as few words as possible."—The Rainbow.

The tones in which spiritual things come to us in these pages are to the devout one very pleasant."
—The Wesleyan Methodist Magazine.

Copies of this book may also be obtained with the title page, "Thirty-six Short Plain Sermons by a London Suburban Minister," at the same price.

Jay (Rev. W.): see under "Preacher's Treasury (The)." Fourth Series.

Kidder's (Dr.) Homiletics.

A Treatise on Homiletics, designed to illustrate the true theory and practice of preaching the Gospel. By DANIEL P. KIDDER, D.D., Professor in The Garrett Biblical Institute. With a Lecture on the Plan of a Sermon. By WILLIAM G. T. SHEDD, D.D., Professor in Union Theological Seminary, New York. THIRD EDITION. Crown 8vo, 4/-

The former Edition (without Dr. SHEDD'S Essay) was published by Mr. H. W. Walker, of Leeds.

"Of the many treatises on homiletics, we know of none better adapted for general use than this by Dr. KIDDER. It is admirable in almost every respect, and with reference to the purpose the author had in view, it may be regarded as complete. He says: 'The design of this volume is to aid clerical students and junior ministers of the Gospel in preparing for their life-work. It aims to present in a systematic form practical views of the subject of preaching, having due reference to the experiences of the past, the wants of the present, and the hopes of the future.' If any further recommendation were needed, we need only quote the next sentence: 'While the writer has laboured primarily to supply a text-book for the use of his own students, he has also sought to provide for the wants of those candidates for the ministry who for any reason pursue homiletical studies apart from the advantages of educational instruction,' and express at the same time our opinion that this large class of persons and Lecturer on the Relations of Christianity to Popular Infidelity at Andover Theological Seminary. Crown 8vo, 7/6

"This, we believe, is the first of Dr. MANNING'S work, which has been published on this side of the Atlantic, and we are thankful to Mr. DICKINSON, who has already rendered many invaluable services of the same nature, for introducing it to English readers. It is indeed refreshing to come across a work manifestly of criticism, as thorough in its comprehension of the positions which it endeavours to refute, as candid in its statements as to what these positions really are, and worked so masterly and decisive in its arguments against them." — The Free man.

Parker (Dr.) Detached Links.

Detached Links: One thousand Extracts from the Writings and Discourses of JOSEPH PARKER, D.D., Minister of the City Temple, London, Author of "Ecce Deus," "Ad Clerum," &c., &c. Compiled by Rev. JOSEPH LUCAS, London. Crown 8vo, 480 pp., large type and full Index, 5/-

"Selections, brief passages, sentences, when conveying in a condensed form weighty or original truths, are valuable in a variety of ways."

This volume, gleaned by Dr. PARKER from the writings and sermons of Dr. PARKER, contains a number of good things. — The Press's Letter.
"Dr. PARKER is not generally a very profound, but he is a very striking thinker. He thinks in imagery, and thus imagery is of a very bold and picturesque quality. He never fails to arrest and retain attention. Mr. LUCAS, an able and loving admirer of Dr. PARKER, has in this thick volume collected a quantity of wise single sayings, eloquent scattered sentences, and long and linked paragraphs and pages, from Dr. PARKER'S sermons and works. It is a labour of love, and is executed also with very considerable literary taste and skill, and forms a volume of varied interest." — The Dundee Advertiser.

Parsons (Rev. Jas.): see under "Preacher's Treasury (The). Fourth Series."

Phelps' (Dr.) The New Birth.

The New Birth: or, the Work of the Holy Spirit. By AUSTIN PHELPS, Professor in Andover Theological Seminary, Author of "The Still Hour." 12mo, 2/-

"Sound and judicious teaching upon one of the weightiest, and at the same time most difficult of subjects. Right glad are we that our American friends are contributing to our literature so much that is purely evangelical and yet deeply thoughtful and learned. Dr. PHELPS writes for the student and meditative, and such will find meat such as their soul loveth in this little volume." — The Sower and Travel.

"It is a book eminently adapted to be put into the hands of the thoughtful. Its heavy imagery, apt illustration, choice diction, and moral persuasiveness, are elements that will commend the subject to a large class of readers to whom a less attractive exhibition of the Gospel might be ineffectual to accomplish the desired end." — The Study.

Robinson's (Ralph) Christ All.

Christ all and in all; or, several significant Suggestive Similitudes by which the Lord Jesus Christ is described in the Holy Scriptures; being the substance of many (53) Sermons. By RALPH ROBINSON, late pastor of Mary Winoth, London. Crown 8vo, 5/-

Only a very few copies remaining.

"This is a volume full of quickening truth. Although published originally in 1866, it has more freshness and interest than most books of the kind published in the present day. It consists of a number of sermons on the various similitudes by which our Lord is described in Scripture, such as 'the Life,' 'the Light,' 'the Way,' 'the Shepherd,' 'the Vine,' &c. Most of the sermons are short and suggestive. There is perfect unity throughout, and most appropriate is the title 'Christ All and in All,' as Christ is the theme from first to last."—The Pulpit Analyst.

Robinson's (Dr. T.) Wanderings in Scripture Lands.

Wanderings in Scripture Lands: being an account of a nine months tour in Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Turkey, and Greece, in the years 1869 and 1870. By Rev. T. ROBINSON, D.D., Author of "The Evangelists and the Mishna," &c., &c. Crown 8vo, 5/-

"Another contribution to oriental information pleasantly written and full of matter. Notwithstanding the abundance of such works, we should have been sorry to have missed Dr. ROBINSON'S journal of his travels. He affords correct and extensive information as to the spiritual condition of the places he has visited in addition to the geographical illustrations which these facilities suggest."—The Standard and Travel.

Robinson's (Dr. T.) Commentary on Romans: see under "Van Doren."

Secker's (W.) The Nonsuch Professor.

The Nonsuch Professor in his Meridian Splendour; or the Singular Actions of Sanctified Christians laid open in seven Sermons at All Hallows' Church, London. By W. SECKER. To which is added, The Wedding Ring, a Sermon. A new edition, revised, 12mo, 2/-

"We are glad to see this reprint of a work now almost forgotten. Mr. SECKER was a man of considerable learning, rich imagination, and fervent piety. The 'Wedding Ring' is worthy of comparison with JEREMY TAYLOR's celebrated Sermon on 'The Marriage Ring.' We could hardly bestow upon it a higher commendation. We trust that many Christians, by the perusal of this neatly got up and timely volume, will be stimulated to become such as the 'Nonsuch Professor' is here said to be." — The Sunday School Teachers' Magazine.

Spencer and Cawdray.

Things New and Old; or, a Storehouse of Illustrations, by JOHN SPENCER, with Preface by THOMAS FULLER; to which is added A Treasury of Similes, by ROBERT CAWDRAV, both being carefully edited, from the Original Editions (1658 and 1693); with an Introduction by Rev. J. G. PILKINGTON, M.A., Incumbent of St. Mark's, Dalston, London. Fourth Edition. Thick handsome Volume, beautifully printed. Super royal 8vo, 15/-

"We venture to assert that any minister who makes a free use of the contents of this volume will be deemed a striking and interesting preacher. The people will not soon forget the illustrations he uses, nor will they willingly lose the chance of hearing more of the same kind. The most popular preacher in England makes no secret of it that he is much indebted to SECKER's 'Things New and Old,' nor need he shrink from acknowledging his obligations. Now we hope that thousands of our ministers will avail themselves of the same 'treasury,' and appreciate more and more its poignancy and power to the noble man of God to whom we refer. We have full knowledge of the difficulty ministers experience in finding the 'few shillings' which reviewers so frequently advise them to invest in this book or the other, but we have no hesitation in saying that this volume issued by Mr. DICKINSON will soon repay a thousand-fold the marvellously small price at which the work is published." — The Christian World.

Spiritual Garland (The).

The Spiritual Garland; being Extracts from English Sacred Writers, illustrative of the Truths of Christianity. Selected and arranged by Rev. J. G. PILKINGTON, M.A., Incumbent of St. Mark's, Dalston, London. Crown 8vo, 3/6

"The compiler has sought to gather some of the many beautiful flowers of thought found in the works of the great writers, both Churchmen and Nonconformists, of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. He has admirably carried out his purpose. After a very careful examination of its pages, we can say that there is not a common-place paragraph among the extracts, which constitute this handsomely got-up volume. The usefulness of the book is greatly increased by the copious indices at the end." — The Freeman.

Stems and Twigs; or Sermon Framework; being Notes of Two Hundred Sermons. Third thousand, revised and considerably enlarged. Post 8vo, 3/6

Stems and Twigs; or, Sermon Framework. Second Series, being Notes more copious than those in the above volume, of One Hundred Sermons including nine on the Parable of the Prodigal Son. Post 8vo, 3/6

Stems and Twigs, contained.

"Some men have a wonderful power of analysis of texts. They need only to look at a verse, to have it separate into heads and divisions in a moment. Like the magician in the 'Arabian Nights,' let the atoms be ever so tangled, they have only to lift their wand, and confusion separates into order. They look at a word, presently its germinates like a seed, and flowers, and hang out its seeds as we stand by. Our author is one of these miracle-workers. He has a special faculty for 'decisions-making.' Just as JAY had it, or MATTHEW HENRY, or as SEVERIAN has it now. Every man is after his own order, but our author's is a useful one.

CRALMER could never make a plan; HENRY MELVILLE's are very poor; Mr. BERRY is not famous for the power, but our author can win a text as nature does a leaf. Of course no one can hope to preach these outlines just as they are, if he did his light would shine through feeblest ribs, but the bones are supplied, if he can add flesh and life. It is the best book of sermon plans we know."

"Evangelical and excellent of their kind, and some of the sketches very striking."—The Watchman.

Stevens' Methodist Plans.

Second Edition, to which is added a reprint of his solemn Covenant with his Maker and a fac-simile of an original characteristic letter to him from Rev. JOHN WESLEY. Post 8vo, 3/6

"This is a small volume of 'sketches,' by one of the early and enthusiastic Methodist ministers. Throughout the work there runs the fire and force of an earnest soul-seeker. We rejoice in having the perusal of the rough drafts of sermons presided by men who aimed at reaching the hearts of their fellow-sinners."—The Literary World.

"The Study" is a new candidate for the suffrages of its own and seems to be chiefly from foreign sources. Taking the last number as a sample, we should say that it is likely to be a good service, and to command a wide circulation."—The Baptist.

"This is the complete volume of the first year's issue of this well-known serial publication. It contains, in fact, a series of papers, illustrations for the pulpit, reviews, Sabbath school addresses, &c., &c., a very repertory of useful material, especially for those engaged in teaching and preaching. These appears to be no controversial matter introduced, and the selection has been admirably made, and we must heartily commend the volume to our readers."

—The Weekly Review.

Some of the articles are original and come from the pens of men of ability; others are reprinted from standard reviews, and from the works of learned men, and the selection is generally admirable. America is specially laid under contribution, and we are deeply indebted to German and trans-Atlantic writers for some of the interest and recent thoughts. The work is well printed, the paper is good, and the volume when bound looks pretty, and is worthy to stand side by side in our libraries with those of our most honoured names."

Talmage's (Dr. T. De Witt) Sermons.

Fifty Sermons delivered in the Brooklyn Tabernacle, Brooklyn, U.S.A. By Rev. T. DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D., reprinted from "The Christian Age." SECOND EDITION. Crown 8vo, 3/6

The First Edition was published at 4/6

A SECOND SERIES of Fifty Sermons. Crown 8vo, 3/6

Further Volumes will probably be published.

"The author of these sermons is too well-known to require any introduction, as is also the character of his sermons to require any description. Thousands who have read these discourses in 'The Christian Age' will heartily welcome them again in this collected form. There may be in them plenty of minor faults and inelegances of style, as some critics assert, but in wealth of illustration, in graphic description, and faithful, powerful appeal they are unequalled. It has been said that one Niagara is enough for a continent, or even for a world; but we wish that every country and every city and large town had such a preacher as the author of these sermons."—The Bible & Mission Magazine.

Talmage (Gems from).

Gems from Talmage. One Thousand Brilliant Passages from the published and unpublished writings of the Rev. T. DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D. Compiled and edited by Rev. J. W. ATKINSON. SECOND THOUSAND. Crown 8vo, cloth, 3/6

"The title is unjust to any author, because it is always possible that the fulfilment may fall below the promise. In this case, happily, the book is unquestionably worthy of its title. Dr. TALMAGE is a speaker of remarkably vigorous and brilliant thoughts, of which he seems to have an unusual abundance."—Rev. Dr. PARKER, in The City Temple.

Talmage's The Abominations of Modern Society.

The Abominations of Modern Society. By Rev. T. DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D., THIRD EDITION. Crown 8vo, with Portrait, 2/6, 12mo 1/6

The former Editions were published at 4/ and 3/6

"It is a melancholy thing that in the nineteenth century such a book should be necessary. But that the necessity exists no one can for a moment doubt. 'Abominations' abound; and we must sorrowfully confess that many of these denunciations are as applicable to England as to America. Next to W. L. G. TALMAGE, whose genius is in many respects unparalleled, Dr. TALMAGE is now the most popular preacher in New York. His sermons are published weekly, and are eagerly run after. Nor is it difficult to see the reason. He is a bold outspoken man, with a clear incisive style, remarkable dramatic powers, and a wonderful facility of illustration. In this volume he appears at his very best. Among the abominations he exposes are the influences of fashion, the ball-room, the unlawful speculations of 'The Stock Gallery,' gambling, drunkenness, coarseness, lies white and black. His words burn with indignation towards evil, and those who read them cannot fail to feel their power. To young men in commercial life, especially the book will prove of great value."—The Baptist Magazine.

Talmage's Burning Words.

Burning Words. By Rev. T. DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D. A popular and cheap selection (1054) of the most bright and pithy sayings of this remarkable preacher and writer. 368 pp., 12mo, 2/6, or BEST EDITION crown 8vo, with portrait, 3/6

"Dr. TALMAGE is a giant phenomenon. His conceptions of men and things are so vivid that he cannot be said to possess them; they possess him. He is dramatic, and cannot describe without acting. He has a clear, incisive mind, a broad and genial humour, a high and exacting conscientiousness, kindly sympathy, a vivid imagination, and vehement passion. He is in dead earnest, and every blow tells."—The New York Independent.

"A preacher who attracted the notice and admiration of such writers as MISS MARTINEAU, MISS BARBER, CHARLES DICKENS, and others, on their visits to America, must have been an extraordinary man. FATHER TAYLOR was such a man—a rough genius, but a faithful servant of Christ.

This book gives a biography of great interest, and abounds in anecdotes illustrating the genius, the eccentricity, the earnestness, the purity, of a singularly gifted man."—The Evangelical Magazine.

The Genius of the Gospel: a homiletical Commentary on the Gospel of St. Matthew. By DAVID THOMAS, D.D., Editor of "The Homilist." Edited by Rev. WILLIAM WEBSTER, M.A., joint Author of "Webster and Wilkinson's Greek Testament." SECOND EDITION. (Seventh Thousand.) 8vo, 576 pp, 10 6

The First Edition was published at 15/- by Ward & Co.

The Rev. Prof. C. G. FINEY, of Oberlin, United States, Author of "Systematic Theology," &c., writing in a French paper: "I should like you to read 'The Genius of the Gospel,' by Dr. THOMAS. It is a book of unparellel value, and will greatly help you."

We do not wonder that this valuable volume has reached the seventh thousand. We might differ from many of its statements, and criticise its style of expression, but we could not speak too highly of the suggestive and instructive character of the work. No collection of Biblical commentaries will be complete without this."—Rev. C. H. STURGEON, in The Sword and Trowel.

Thomas (Dr.) on Acts.

A Homiletic Commentary on the Acts of the Apostles: the Second Gospel of St. Luke: including Emendative Renderings, Exegetical Remarks, and the Various Readings of the Three most Celebrated MSS. of the Original Greek Text. By DAVID THOMAS, D.D., 8vo, 9/-

"Dr. THOMAS has the true genius for homiletical analysis, and he has given ample proof of it in the volume before us. We know of no book, in which the true sense of the Acts is more thoroughly brought out, and the great lesson which it teaches presented with greater power than in this most suggestive volume. Independence of thought, thorough insight into a text, skill in grasping and bringing out its full meaning, and great practical suggestiveness, are characteristic of the commentary throughout."—The English Independent.

Trapp's (Rev. J.) Commentary on the Bible.

A Commentary on the Old and New Testaments, by Rev. JOHN TRAPP. Reprinted from the Author's last Edition (1654-62). Edited by REVS. W. WEBSTER and HUGH MARTIN; with Memoir of the Author by Rev. A. B. GROSART. Two Portraits. 5 vols., super royal 8vo, £3 : 15s. (or, separately, each 15/-)

CONTENTS.—Vol. I., Genesis to 2 Chronicles; II., Ezra to Psalms; III., Proverbs to Daniel; IV., Hosea to Malachi; V., New Testament.

"Here is a fine rare commentary of the true Puritan stamp, produced in a modernised form, and at a very reasonable rate, by a London publisher. In point of intrinsic value and good editing, it is hardly to be surpassed by any work of the kind. Both the publisher and the editor have done their duty well, and deserve the hearty thanks of all genuine lovers of Puritan lore."—The British and Foreign Evangelical Review.

"Metropolitan Tabernacle.
"To Mr. DICKINSON.—In my copy of 'Trapp' I find I have written at different dates the remarks:—'Most pithy, precious, pertinent.' Best of expositors.' 'Without equal, or even rival.' 'The most suggestive book I possess.' 'Batter loved each day.'"
—C. H. SPENCER.

Van Doren's (Dr.) Suggestive Commentary on the New Testament.

A Suggestive Commentary on the New Testament, with critical and homiletical notes on the original plan of Rev. W. H. VAN DOREN, D.D., Chicago, Illinois, U.S.A. The Volumes already issued are as follows:—

The Gospel according to St. Luke, by Dr. VAN DOREN. Seventh Edition.

2 vols. Crown 8vo, cloth, 10/-

The Gospel according to St. John, by Dr. VAN DOREN, 2 thick vols. Crown 8vo, cloth, 13/-

St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, by Rev. T. ROBINSON, D.D. 2 vols. Crown 8vo, cloth, 10/-

"The compiler of 'The Suggestive Commentary' certainly succeeds, in supplying an astonishing quantity of practical and condensed thought in a very few lines. Every addition to exegetical literature is something gained; and I am glad to see this new help to an understanding of Scripture."
—Rev. J. C. RYLE, M.A.

"Full of information and suggestion, their explanation and comments put in the tersest and most pithy form, these volumes are an admirable digest of the works of the best writers. Every sentence in the text is carefully analysed, and almost every word explained, while the views of different commentators are honestly and impartially given, so that the reader may form his judgment from a collection of the opinions of the ablest expositors."—The English Independent.

"The practical thoughts are manifestly the result of much sober and careful thinking. They are earnest, pertinent, and sensible—helpful, all the more, in suggesting rather than superceding thought directing to applications rather than working those out. The work, which is chiefly suited to preachers and exhorters, cannot fail to be useful to anyone who may consult it."—The Weekly Review.

Vaughan's (Rev. Jas.) Sermons to Children.

Twenty-three Sermons to Children, preached in Christ Church, Brighton, by the Rev. JAMES VAUGHAN, M.A., Incumbent, containing numerous anecdotes and stories. FIFTH EDITION. Crown 8vo, 4/6

Vaughan's (Rev. Jas.) Addresses to Children.

Sixteen Addresses to Children (on the Apostles' Creed) delivered in Christ Church, Brighton, on Sunday afternoons in 1873. By Rev. JAMES VAUGHAN, Incumbent. Crown 8vo, 4/6

The first ten of these were originally published separately, under the title of "Addresses to Children," at 2/6 gilt edges and 2/- plain; this book is now out of print, as is also the "Sermons and Addresses" which comprised the above volume of "Sermons" and the first portion of the "Addresses." Purchasers of this first portion can obtain the remaining six ("SECOND SERIES") in cloth gilt edges, 2/6, or cloth plain, 4/-.

"Free preachers to children can be compared with Mr. VAUGHAN. Perhaps in some cases his sermons are rather over-crowded with illustrations and quotations, and this criticism may be fairly urged against one or two in the earlier volume (now in the 5th edition). But those in the latter edition, delivered within the last year or two, are quite different in style. Instead of being addresses to isolated texts, they are catechetical expositions of the leading events in our Lord's life, following (except the first three) the line of the Apostles' Creed; and anything more laudified than some of those we have never read. Those, for instance, on "He descended into hell," born of the Virgin Mary," and on "He descended into hell," are masterpieces for the fearless simplicity (if we may so term it) with which these most difficult subjects are treated. Extracts are impracticable; but we hope that at all events the latter of the two volumes will quickly be in the hands of very many of our readers. — The Church Sunday School Teachers' Magazine.

"The hints, though often brief, are very pregnant with solid matter, and the matter is always of the best kind. The pithy and interesting anecdotes and stories brought forward so frequently for purposes of illustration, will do much to simplify to the child the truths taught, and to give his memory a stronger grasp of what he learns by the force of his fancy, which is thus enlisted in the service of religion." — The Evening Standard.

"We have sent a copy to our Sabbath School, and superintendents cannot do better than follow our example. The 'Sermons' is in a fifth edition and well deserves to be." — Rev. C. H. SARGENT.

Vaughan's (Rev. Jas.) Earlier Sermons.

A volume containing about Fifty of Mr. VAUGHAN's Earlier Sermons which have for many years been out of print and are exceedingly scarce. In the Press.

Wadsworth's Sermons.

Sermons. By CHARLES WADSWORTH, Minister of Calvary Church, San Francisco. Post 8vo.

"The style of the author is remarkably clear, bold, and brilliant, and he sometimes rises to a lofty eloquence, and rubes forward with almost the tramp of a war-horse, and the majesty of a saint. The theology of the book is slightly Calvinistic. The aim of the author in composing these sermons has, manifestly, been to reach the conscience, and arouse the slumbering, the direction and warlike and apostolic. We have been deeply interested, and were much refreshed by the reading of this book. We cordially recommend it. Persons who have a taste for good sermons will find it no ordinary treat." — The Primitive Methodist.
